

United Way is committed to investing in health and human service programs and collaborating on community wide initiatives that create an impact on critical issues facing Greater Waterbury.

That's why United Way partners with programs that track United Way investments and collect data that demonstrates how these dollars are providing real benefits and changing lives.

United Way 2-1-1 Your first call for help

Connecticut residents call 2-1-1 for different types of help. Professional caseworkers help callers find information, discover options, and deal with a crisis. Some callers are looking for something simple such as where to donate goods while others may call with complex issues such as finding quality child care, substance abuse, and suicide prevention.
